

A WiM membership provides a platform for manufacturing professionals to:

Establish meaningful connections with industry peers and expand their networks

Gain valuable industry insight and education to further their careers

Improve their leadership and communication skills

WHY wim

The Women in Manufacturing® Association (WiM) works to empower female workers and strengthen the manufacturing sector. As a non-profit trade association, WiM is dedicated to supporting, promoting and inspiring women who have chosen careers in manufacturing.

WiM represents manufacturers of all types and individuals in every job function – from production to executive level leadership. Membership and participation in WiM is available to anyone working in manufacturing or fields that support the industry.

OUR CHAPTERS

With a growing network of local and statewide chapters across the United States, WiM provides members with opportunities to learn and connect in person with industry peers through networking events, plant tours and other activities at the local level.

OUR CONFERENCES AND EVENTS

WiM produces a wide range of conferences and events addressing topics that are important to members including personal and professional development, industry updates, moms and caregivers in manufacturing, global manufacturing, workforce development and more. Conference and event participants engage in interactive learning sessions, hear impactful keynotes and network with their peers.

OUR CAREER RESOURCES

WiM offers career resources for employers and job seekers to connect. From virtual career fairs to a members only job board, job seekers can post resumes and employers from across the manufacturing industry can actively seek skilled individuals to add to their workforces.

OUR EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

The WiM Education Foundation (WiMEF) provides and supports effective, affordable, educational opportunities for women in manufacturing. The programs powered by WiMEF focus on leadership, career advancement, managerial training, development of production floor employees and other action-oriented and solution-driven objectives that will help participants succeed in manufacturing.
